2. VF4’s Conversion Plan From Open-ended Fund To Close-ended Fund

Mr Trần Lê Minh – Deputy CEO of VFM – present VF4’s Conversion Plan From Open-ended Fund To Close-ended Fund.

CHAPTER I: REASON, OBJECTIVE, AND LEGAL DOCUMENTS SUPPORTING FOR VF4'S CONVERSION TO OPEN ENDED FUND

1. Updating of VF4 fund units' trading activities

Movement in VFMVF4's NAV, market price, and turnover

Movement in VF4's discount/premium

Market price vs NAV per unit

- Within the 1st 6 months in 2013, average daily trading of VFMVF4 fund unit has been around 100.000 units per day, equivalent to only 0.1% of total outstanding fund units.

- Since the year of 2008, majority of closed-end funds operating in Vietnam were traded at deep discount, up to 50%. Also being affected by the bearish trend, the discount of VFMVF4 fund units in 2012 were ranging from 14% to 50% and with average of 30%. Upon to data on 30 June 2013, the average discount of VFMVF4 fund unit in the 1st 6 months in 2013 was at 23%.

2. Objectives of the conversion

2.1 Improve trading liquidity of VF4's fund units

Currently, the liquidity of VFMVF4 fund unit's is quite low compared to the total outstanding VFMVF4 fund units due mainly to the nature of close-ended fund (the Fund is not permitted to buy back fund units). The conversion from close – ended to open – ended fund would improve VFMVF4 fund unit's liquidity since investors could then redeem directly with the fund management company.

2.2 Eliminate discount between NAV and market price

The close-ended funds' discount between NAV and market price are relatively high. After converting VFMVF4 into an open-ended fund, investors could subscribe and redeem directly with fund management company. The discount hence shall be eliminated and investor's benefits are improved.

2.3 Set up a mechanism to raise new chartered capital as needed

According to the current regulations, close-ended funds could only raise capital once at the IPO and new fund units are not issued frequently. If investors, who would like buy close-ended fund units, could only trade on stock exchange at market price. Meanwhile, the frequent subscription and redemption between investors could enhance cash inflow and provide more liquidity to the market.

3. Legal basis of VF4's conversion

The conversion of VF4 and other relevant matters are governed by the:

- Law on Securities passed by the National Assembly of the Social Republic of Vietnam, on 29 June 2006 and effective as from 01 January 2007;
- Congressional Act No. 62/2010/QH12 on amendments and supplements to a number of articles of the securities Law act on 24 November 2010 and effective as from 01 July 2011;

VFMVF4 will impose an investment halt during the conversion to have its assets audited and to submit the legal documents to the authorities in accordance with regulations. In order to limit market risks and optimize its net asset value, in consideration of investors who either hold up or withdraw money, the Fund will hold approximately 85-90% NAV in stocks and 10-15% NAV in cash, from the beginning of investment halt to the re-enacting of fund operating. Cash of VF4 during the frozen period will be kept as short-term deposits or demand deposits at banks in the list of banks approved by the Board of Presentatives of close-ended-fund VF4.

Unless SSC reject this action, during the frozen period, if there is occurrence of Right to Buy derived from stocks holding by VF4, and if the right is in the money at this time, VFM will have a permission to exercise the right for benefit of investors.

12.2 Conversion ratio

- One for one (1 for 1), or one close-ended fund unit to be exchanged for one open-ended fund unit.

12.3 Investor's asset value after conversion

Total investors' asset value, after conversion, will be equal to total outstanding open-ended fund units multiplied by NAV per unit at the most recent day of post-conversion time.

13. The responsibility of FMC to NAV of the portfolio in the conversion process

The FMC is exempted from any responsibility relating to the change of NAV of VF4 due to market movement during the period from the starting date of the suspension of the Fund's investment activities to the date the Fund is allowed to perform investing activities after the Fund is converted to open-ended fund.

14. Settlement for investor's rights

In fact, to achieve the approval of General Meeting for delisting a security deposited at VSD, a company has to submit a reasonable plan of settlement for investors' rights. Under the provisions of the Enterprise Law, for a joint-stock company, shareholders voting against the decision of the company to reorganize or change the rights and obligations of shareholders stipulated in the charter of the company may require the company to redeem their shares. However, according to Article 6 Clause 31 of the Securities Law no. 70/2006, "Close-ended fund is a public fund that the fund certificates were offered to the public shall not be redeemed at the request of investors". Therefore, the settlement for investors' rights protested the General Meeting's decision on conversion plan will be implemented after the conversion is completed, namely:

"VF4 fund certificate's holders will convert all close-ended fund certificates which he owns to open-ended fund certificates in accordance with the Fund's conversion rate and time as specified in the conversion plan approved by Investors' General Meeting. For investors who protest conversion policy or conversion plan approved by General Meeting shall have the right to require the fund management company to redeem their fund certificates after receiving approval from SSC for the conversion from closed-end fund to open-end funds. The method of redemption, valuation mechanism, purchasing volume determined under the provisions of Circular No. 183/2011/TT-BTC issued by the Ministry of Finance dated 16 Dec, 2011".
